The screenshot shows a Zoom meeting interface. On the left, a document titled "Tooth-Bleaching: A Review of the Efficacy and Adverse Effects of Various Tooth Whitening Products" is displayed. The document includes an abstract, key words, introduction, methodology, and a conclusion. The abstract states: "Tooth bleaching (whitening) is one of the most common and inexpensive methods for treating discoloration of teeth. Dental aesthetics, especially tooth colour, is of great importance to majority of the people and discoloration of even a single tooth can negatively influence the quality of life. Therefore, a review of the literature was carried out (limited to aesthetic tooth bleaching) to provide a broad overview of the efficacy and adverse effects of various tooth whitening products on soft and hard oral tissues." The methodology section mentions: "This literature review was limited to aesthetic tooth-bleaching and aimed to provide a broad overview of bleaching techniques, their efficacy and adverse effects on soft and hard tissues as well as the management of tooth sensitivity and gingival irritation. In formulating this review, only English-language articles available electronically were selected. The PubMed database and Google scholar search engine were explored with keywords which included: tooth-whitening, tooth-bleaching, carbamide peroxide, hydrogen peroxide, bleaching and dentistry, home-bleaching, and vital bleaching. Over 200 articles were initially reviewed and 82 articles were shortlisted on the basis of their applicability to the present topic of review and then studied in detail." The conclusion states: "Efficacy of different types of tooth-whitening products: Nightguard vital bleaching using 10% CP is the most widely used and extensively researched tooth-bleaching technique. The American Dental Association has awarded its seal of acceptance to a number of dentist-supervised home bleaching products containing 10% CP. Nightguard vital bleaching techniques have been effective for bleaching teeth stained by aging, mild fluorosis, trauma, inherent discoloration and tetracycline. According to the American Dental Association guidelines for the acceptance of preservative-containing oral hygiene products, the clinical efficacy may be demonstrated by a change of two value oriented shade increments and a perceptible colour must be maintained in 50% of the recall population at 6 months compared to the control, to reflect the duration of efficacy. In a long-term clinical trial, Leonard et al. reported whitening of teeth in 98% of the participants by 10% CP and 82% of the participants retained the whitening effect upto 47 months post-treatment. A meta-analysis of the clinical trials from 1980-1999 on dentist-supervised home bleaching products using 10% CP

On the right side of the screen, a presentation slide titled "Jurnal review" is shown, with the text: "Journal of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Pakistan", "Abdul Majeed, Imran Farooq, S. R. Grobler dan RJ Rossouw", and "2015". Below the presentation, there are four video feeds of participants: Rina Permatasari, Bella Fortunela, Chici Karina, and another participant whose name is not visible. The Zoom interface includes a top bar with "Turn on Original Sound", "You are viewing Bella Fortunela's screen", and "View Options".
